History Of Mudukulathur

Mudukulathur is a panchayat town in Ramanathapuram district in the Indian state of Tamil Nadu.

A highly underdeveloped region of the state. Most of the families in the town and neighboring villages are making their living out of farming that depends on irregular seasonal rain and depleted groundwater resources. More than one third of the population is living in poverty. Social harmony is very fragile because of recurring caste clashes. Educational levels of the youth in the town are below state average.

There are no employment generating economical or industrial activities at the local level and this town lacks in leadership on socio-economical spheres. Bargaining or lobbying power of the local administration with the state government and its agencies are at best very limited to non-existent. There are no socio-economic institutions in this town or Taluk.

Health is major concern here. Most of the men and women around 50 year of age are having Blood Pressure, Diabetes, and Arthritis etc. For health facilities people depend on the nearby town Parmakkudi. The government hospital serves the poor people of this town and the villages around it. But the quality health care is a distant dream and preventive health care is something people are not aware of, anyways this is the case with majority of Indian population irrespective of education or wealth levels.

Demography

As of 2001 India census, Mudukulathur had a population of 13,130. Males constitute 50% of the population and females 50%. Mudukulathur has an average literacy rate of 71%, higher than the national average of 59.5%: male literacy is 76%, and female literacy is 65%. In Mudukulathur, 12% of the population is under 6 years of age.

During olden days, the town used to be called Mutthukulathur meaning "the town with pearls in its lakes" in Tamil with obvious reference to the three ponds "oorani". However the name of the town changed over the years to Mudukulathur meaning "town of oldest ponds" in an ironical reference to the absence of the pearls and the ponds drying up.

Economy

The local economy produces commodities like Rice, Chilly, Cotton and seasonal vegetables. The economic engine of this town is mostly driven by the Gulf money, Wages from Government Salaries, Wages from Agri Labour and Trade.

Infrastructure

Water-Road-Power

Water is very scarce in this town for many decades now. The local town administration takes care of supply of drinking water to homes. The water is supplied everyday for few hours in the morning. This water is mostly used for drinking and cooking. Summer months are problematic as the water is not supplied every day. Some people even buy water from local vendors.

This town has a well-developed road network to connect with nearby towns and villages but the quality of the roads not worthy of a mention except for the road that runs to Paramakkudi.

Most of the homes in this town are connected to the state electricity network TNEB.

Transport

The only means of transportation is by Road using public transport services operated by state transport corporation and private players like Jayavilas and Shanmugam Bus Transport companies. In the recent years, people use taxis and autos for local commute. A newly constructed bus stand, which has statues of leaders of two communities reflecting the social arrangement of present times, serves the commuters.

Health

This town being a Taluk headquarters, has a government hospital and a private clinic run by a lady doctor for many years, some private hospitals.

But the hospital does not have the adequate capabilities and capacities, generally people of this town don't
